"In the end we will conserve only what we love...we love only what we understand...we will understand only what we are taught."

Mangelsen Meetup

The Mangelsen - Images of Nature Gallery in La Jolla, CA is hosting the California Wolf Center on July 30th at 6pm for an exciting event exploring the role of the gray wolf on our landscape. We will be discussing the history of the wolf, the surprisingly vital role they play in an ecosystem, and current stages of wild wolf recovery. If you are in the area, join us!

Costs of Conservation

Ever wonder what your donations support?

- The salary of a range rider can cost up to $2,500 a month.
- Feeding our resident wolves can cost up to $4,700 a month.
- Transferring a resident Mexican gray wolf to be released into the wild can cost up to $1,500.

Communicate Your Concerns

Mexican gray wolves need your voice! The Mexican Wolf Transparency and Accountability Act (HR2910) would remove federal protections from this critically endangered wolf. With only about 100 individuals in the wild, they need to be protected!

Teaching the Truth

We know there is an incredible void when it comes to wolf education. The misinformation that surrounds wolves continues to influence policy makers and their constituents, threatening protection at a national level. We have embarked on a journey to raise $10,000 in 30 days to increase our educational reach. It is our mission to spread the truth about wolves!

Voice of the Volunteers

Helen Vanderswag is a San Diego native that has been volunteering at the California Wolf Center for over seven years! Among many roles she has, she is an integral member of our wolf vaccination team.

The California Wolf Center is dedicated to the recovery of wolves in the wildlands they once roamed. We envision a landscape where wolves thrive in healthy ecosystems and wolves and people successfully coexist.
