Playing Puppies

California Department of Fish and Wildlife released a great video featuring the puppies of California's inaugural wild wolf pack, the Shasta pack! It is truly a great sight to see.

Instant Inspiration

Educating the future leaders of wildlife conservation is critical to the success of wild wolf recovery. This aspect of our mission cannot be overlooked. Our conservation center is frequently visited by school groups and youth groups, including U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Conservation Core. It is wonderful to inspire the future steward of our wildlands.

Champion for Charity

Don't miss San Diego's only evening dedicated to wild wolves held at the San Diego Hall of Champions in Balboa Park on October 9th, 2015 at 6pm.

- Savor a delicious catered dinner
- Enjoy live music
- Toast to wild wolf recovery with a drink from our no host bar
- Hear inspirational stories from our experts in the field
- Discover unique items during our silent and live auctions

Arrival in Arizona

We had the pleasure of relocating two of our resident Mexican gray wolves, F891 & F892, to Southwest Wildlife Conservation Center in Scottsdale, AZ. Here the sisters will retire from the Mexican Wolf Species Survival Plan and live out their golden years!

Voice of the Volunteers

Frank Capolupo (Capo-head, lupo-wolf) was raised in Pittsburgh and served two years in the U.S. Air Force. Drawn by the sunny skies, he moved to California where he worked in public relations until retiring. He gives his time and passion to spreading the truth about wolves by leading our offsite education efforts. We are grateful to have him on our team.
